Editor's Note:—This is the concluding article on the Arthur Dale, W. Va. homestead project. Other Merry-Go-Round articles on the New Deal will appear in the near future.

W. Virginia Homesteaders Show Gratitude and Faith in Government

ARTHURDALE, W. Va.,—Every homesteader at Arthurdale talks like a forgotten man who has been remembered. There is contentment, gratitude, and a simple faith that "the Government will take care of us."

On many walls hang framed pictures of the man who has become their household god—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Doak, a homesteader who looks too frail ever to have mined coal, volunteered an indirect explanation of this psychology.

"I never heard my alarm clock before I came here," he said. "I had to get up at three in the morning, but I was always awake. Here I have a hard time getting up at six."

"I had to get up at three to be at work at the mine by seven—back in the mine. I had to walk four miles to the mine and three miles into it after I got there. Yes, there was a trolley car but wages was so low that if you rode you didn't eat. I loaded coal for 22 cents a ton."

"I hear wages are better now, they're getting five dollars a day. But I wouldn't go back—no sir, not for twice that."

His neighbor Jamison interrupted. "Yes, things is better in the mines now this man come in."

"What man do you mean?" "Why, Roosevelt. You heard of him, ain't you? We had scab times before ever since '25 when the unions broke down. Now he's making things better. Yes, sir, he's the laborer's friend."

"And Mrs. Roosevelt," prompted Doak. "She come here last winter when we was livin' at the Mansion House—just the workin' men, you know, and she sat down to dinner with us and talked to us and then told us to ask her questions. I'll tell you what she is—she's just like an old-fashioned mother."

Disillusionment?

Faith is so strong, devotion so deep in these people that one wonders what may be their disillusionment should their Utopian dream be punctured. What also are their chances of self-support? And their chances of harmonious cooperation, so essential to any homesteading plan?

The Government of course, paid for clearing their land and building their houses. And now they are repaying the Government. They are repaying at the rate of $20 a month and they pay twenty years. At the end of that time they will have paid up $4,800.

So far the cooperative plan has worked successfully. There is no indication that the paternal hand has spoiled them. Work is still hard. It was their own labor that, through sub-zero weather last winter, cleared the land of scrub and brush, drained the swamps, laid the ten miles of "red dog" road, ploughed the land, and put up the fifty houses on it.

That was before the families came. The men all lived together at the Mansion House with a cook to feed them, working through the week and going home on Sunday to tell the folks about it.

The cooperative idea during this period functioned perfectly. But in the future it may be more difficult. The present plan is the establishment of a factory near Arthurdale which will give a living wage to each head of a family.

In addition, each homesteader has his garden patch capable of raising more vegetables than he needs. This surplus is to be traded in at the cooperative store. No credit is given in return, but a credit, against which the homesteader can draw shoes, shirts, butter and milk until his credit is exhausted. In this way it is hoped to avoid dependence on current market prices.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—The Treasury's Procurement division today made public the names of fourteen contractors and construction companies which have been added during the past week to the department's lists of prospective bidders on construction of the new Circleville post-office.

Bids on the Circleville job are to be opened August 15.

The names of those prospective bidders announced today include all firms or individuals who have, during the past week, made the necessary cash deposits to secure copies of plans and specifications for the Circleville postoffice job, indicating an intention to bid.

The names as announced by the Procurement division follow: Barnes and Marion, Circleville; Penker Construction Company, Cincinnati; W. H. Newton, 858 S. TO LET CONTRACT

Ashville's board of public affairs was scheduled to meet late this afternoon to study final disposition of a contract for construction of a water works, the village's Public Works project.

Bids for material and construction of the system were opened last Friday at noon in the auditorium of the new school building by Clerk Fred J. Hines in the presence of the Board of Public Affairs, Consulting Engineer Niple and about 75 contractors and material men.

The bids were inspected by a government official as to regularity and then tabulated.

The board reserved its decision over the week-end and arranged for its meeting this evening.

REPORT MOVEMENT TO ENTHRONE OTTO

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg is leaving for Budapest at the end of the week, it was learned from official sources today, to discuss important questions with the Hungarian government.

It is believed probable that a restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy with the young Archduke Otto on the throne is under consideration.

Otto is still at his castle near Brussels, Belgium, with his mother, the former Empress Zita, according to all available information here, despite reports that he has been seen in Italy.

The Belgian government has promised to keep the Austrian foreign office advised of all Otto's moves. It is thought highly unlikely that he would be able to slip away from the castle Ham without detection by Belgian secret service men who are watching his moves.

POLITICAL RALLY SET NEXT MONDAY

One of the largest political meetings to be held in the county before the primary next Tuesday is scheduled for next Monday when a new park, named in honor of President Roosevelt, will be opened on the Ben Metzgar farm in Wayne-twip.

The event will be an all-day outing with a fish fry scheduled for the afternoon and dancing in the evening. All of the proceeds of the meeting will go to the Wayne-twip Parent-Teachers' association.

All committeemen and their friends have been especially urged to attend. All of the candidates present will be asked to give short talks.

There are seven children in the Smith family and Drs. Sheets and Beale inoculated them last week. They intended to repeat the treatment Monday.

Mrs. Smith was a native of Pickaway-co being born Feb. 28, 1890, a daughter of Jacob and Margaret Johnson Stonerock. She married Scott Smith in March 1906. Besides the husband the following survive: children, Mrs. Myrtle Lingo and Mrs. Ova Rutherford, Williamsport, and Susie, Woodrow, Charles, Ruth and Norma Jean, at home; brother, Chauncey Stonerock, this city; sisters, Lizzie Martin, this city, and Mrs. Minnie Downing, Williamsport.

WILEY POST WORKS FOR ALTITUDE MARK

AKRON, Aug. 6.—Wiley Post, noted around-the-world flyer, today continued his preparations for a world's record altitude flight after a test trip yesterday carried him to a height of 38,000 feet.

Post did not wear his specially designed "stratosphere" rubber suit. He said the temperature at the zenith of his hop was only 70 degrees below zero and that there was no great difference in atmospheric pressure. The flight required one hour and 35 minutes.

His record-breaking attempt will be made at Chicago this fall.

Salesmanship Club To Start In But Few Days

Within the next few days The Herald's big Salesmanship Club will begin. Up until now the time has been devoted to advertising the campaign and the subscribers and general public are familiar with the rules governing, which guarantees all who take part absolute fairness.

The plan of the campaign is such that no matter where you live, whether in Circleville, on a rural route or in any small town or community in the county you have the same chance of winning first prize as anyone. While a few have entered in Circleville, the territory in the county is almost entirely unrepresented. This situation makes it all the more attractive for those living in the "outside" territory to come in and score big in the campaign.

The campaign has not yet started. No one has started in the work of getting subscriptions. Continued on Page Two

HITLER PAYS RESPECTS TO DEAD LEADER

"Symbol of a Germany That Cannot Be Destroyed" Says Feurher

SPEAKS TO NATION

Notables of Nation Fill Reich's Chamber

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Opening the Reichstag memorial services in the Kroll Opera house shortly after noon today, Reichsleader Adolf Hitler described President Paul Von Hindenburg as "the symbol of a Germany that cannot be destroyed, always rejuvenating the vitality of our nation."

Hitler's speech, which consumed exactly fourteen minutes in delivery, was devoted largely to eulogizing the late president.

Describing the time and the history of Von Hindenburg's death the reichsleader pointed out that Europe was then in the "Claws of Jacobinism and torn by revolutionary trends."

"The Reich (federated Germany) and Italy did not exist at the time," he continued.

He referred briefly to the formation of the German empire after the Franco-Prussian war.

"When Chancellor Bismarck spoke the first 'Hoch' under the first Kaiser, the young lieutenant (Hindenburg's) sword flashed to the sky swearing allegiance to the Kaiser and the Reich," he added.

RECALLS TANNENBERG

The reichsleader then paid tribute to Von Hindenburg's war achievements.

"Since the battle of Tannenberg," he explained, "the name of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has been inseparably linked with the greatest struggle of the World war."

"If the political leadership of Germany had been equal to his military leadership Germany would have been spared the gravest humiliation."

Von Hindenburg's peace-time virtues, Hitler told the throng assembled in the Kroll Opera house, equalled his military achievements.

Herald Begins Election Poll

"How's the election going?" Recognizing the prevalence of that question and the intense interest that has been aroused by the current campaigns for the August 14 primary, The Herald today began taking a straw vote in Pickaway-co.

Covering only the contests for governor and United States senator on both Republican and Democratic tickets, stores, shops, restaurants, manufacturing plants and other places where representative groups can be visited will be visited in the poll.

The ballots will be counted at the end of each day and the result's published in The Herald.

Monday afternoon, the business district of the city was being polled and results are expected to be announced in Tuesday's paper.

GOV. OLSON TO BREAK STRIKE

Orders Strict Regulations As Truck Warfare Continues 21st Day.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 6.—Governor Floyd B. Olson, as commander in chief of the national guard, today "cracked down" on both sides in the Minneapolis truck drivers strike.

Gov. Olson clamped a rigid dictatorship over the city by ordering military authorities to keep off the streets all trucks except those carrying necessities, such as bread, milk, ice, fuel and gasoline. This was a blow aimed at the employers. At the same time he struck at the strikers by ordering the national guardsmen to stop all picketing.

The governor's order, became effective at 12:01 a. m. today. Previously he had set midnight as the "deadline" for both sides to get together and end the strike by agreeing to the revised peace proposal of the federal mediators, the Rev. Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunnigan.

Olson declared his order would expose the "chisellers" among the employers and show "where the fault rests for this situation."

It was plain the governor's order was resigned to "break" the strike—now in its twenty-first day. He had previously asserted both sides had had plenty of time to reach an agreement.

PAROLED CONVICT AGAIN BEHIND BARS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—Posing as a Columbus minister, a paroled convict from Ohio penitentiary here, was being held today in Bridgeport, Conn., on charges of abducting 17-year-old 'Evangeline Edson of Catskill, N. Y.

The ex-convict, Frank Clough, 31, was paroled from the state prison June 15 on condition that he leave the state. When arrested yesterday in Bridgeport, he gave as his address the Columbus address of Rev. William A. Wilson, Universalist church pastor who had befriended him.

Clough and the girl were registered as man and wife at a Bridgeport hotel.

Jasper Pritchard Passes Ninety-four Hoping to Reach His Hundredth Year

Native of West Virginia Reads Without Glasses, Shucks Corn, Walks Back and Forth To Town.

Believed to be Circleville's oldest man, Jasper N. Pritchard, celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday, Sunday, at the home of his grandson Russell Kneice, Circleville-Twp, where he makes his home.

Mr. Pritchard, who retains all his faculties and who neither smokes nor drinks, spent the day reminiscing with relatives who took part in a picnic dinner at the Kneice home.

The aged man expects to reach 100 and taking into consideration his present health it seems that he will be able to reach the century mark. He never wears glasses and even reads newspapers and the Bible, his chosen diversions, without them. He walks into town and back by himself and in 1933 shucked 100 shocks of corn.

CONSTANTINE, Algeria, Aug. 6.—More than 20 persons were reported killed and 70 wounded in brutal and bloody mob fighting between Jews and Mohammedans here today.

The riotous battling broke out when Mohammedans, enraged because reports circulated that a Jewish soldier entered a mosque and insulted worshippers, invaded the city's ghetto, set fire to houses, and dragged Jewish men, women and children out into the streets to stab and beat them.

The fighting lasted 36 hours before soldiers could put an end to it.

CANDIDATES BEGIN FINAL WEEK'S TASK

State Interest Divided Between Senate and Governor Contests

OUTCOME IN DOUBT

Four States to Travel to Polls Tuesday

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—Down the stretch in the most hectic race in years thundered candidates in Ohio's primary election today.

A busy final week of campaigning faced each of the 70 major and minor candidates on the Republican and Democratic state tickets. They have only until next Monday night to sell themselves to the voters of their party.

On Tuesday, August 14, Ohioans will stream to the polls to decide which Democrats and which Republicans will have their names on the ballot next November, when this state elects a United States senator, governor, a host of minor state officers and 24 congressmen.

CENTERED ON PAIR

Inter-st naturally centers in the contests for U. S. senator and governor. Sen. Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, whose senate seat is at stake, has four Republican opponents for re-nomination, which his friends say will insure his success at the primary.

The three-cornered Democratic senatorial race continued to present one of the puzzles of the primary. Many observers feel that the fight between Gov. George White and Congressman Charles West, Granville, the "New Deal" candidate, will reduce the vote of each to such an extent that victory by former Gov. Vic Donahey will be easy, but this belief is not unanimous by any means.

CLARK AND FRILEY TRIALS SCHEDULED

Former Ashville Man to Face Bar August 16; Friley Four Days Later.

Glenn "Spiky" Clark, of Columbus, formerly of Ashville, the reputed leader of the quartet which allegedly committed a number of Ashville robberies, will go on trial Thursday, August 16, Judge J. W. Adkins announced Monday.

Jesse Friley, another member of the bandit ring, who faces several grand jury indictments in connection with the robberies, will be placed on trial August 20, Judge Adkins said.

The third member of the gang, Carroll Loudon, is already in Mansfield reformatory to serve terms on five indictments, and it is probable that he will be returned here to testify in the trials of his two former pals.

Clark has been indicted on five charges while Friley faces but three.

While pleading guilty before Judge Adkins last week to five charges of robbery, Loudon declared that the other two, Clark and Friley, had threatened to kill him "if he told anything."

John Henry Preston, colored, the fourth alleged member of the ring, who has also been indicted, has not been captured yet, although an intensive search is still being waged.

ANXIETY RELIEVED, BYRD'S PARTY ABLE TO TALK WITH HIM

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 6.—(Via Mackay radio)—Radio communication with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in his lone outpost 122 miles south of this base has been restored after a silence of more than a week during which there was some anxiety concerning his welfare. After broadcasting to the Admiral daily the radio operator here picked up a message from him saying that his receiver was not functioning.

The tractor expedition which started for Admiral Byrd's camp soon after he became silent and had to turn back because a blizzard raged constantly, has started out again.

3 GAMES ON LEAGUE SKED

Three recreation ball games, all important ones, are scheduled this week with the Mecca restaurant team beaten only once this half figuring in two of them.

The restaurant aggregation meets the Mecca team in a contest that is expected to raise blue flames off the ball field. The Mecca team has been playing great all behind the effective pitching of Bob Jones and will prove a real test for the Mecca aggregation.

The Givens stress defense and light offense while the long suit of the Mecca aggregation is offense. If Jones can keep the Mecca hitters off the paths his team has a good chance to win, but if the restaurant men get hitting Jones' offense will probably end the streak of the colored aggregation. Tubby Vlecome will be the Mecca moundman.

OILS-PURINA TUESDAY

On Tuesday evening the Circleville Oils, removed from the undefeated class last week by the (Continued) Corporation, will resume festivities against the improved Purina Chow aggregation. The Purina added Chuck Holland, a clever outfielder, last week and with Accord and Heiskell expected to be in the outer garden with Holland and the team will show strength there it has been missing all year. About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

SHOULD THE COLUMBUS Red Birds decide to recall Bill weeney, first baseman, from the Syracuse team of the International league, a queer situation would arise—Sweeney happens to be the manager of the Syracuse team even if he is only an optioned player subject to 24 hours recall. Mickey Heath hurt his leg Sunday and his place is being taken temporarily by Bud Leachout who is no great shakes in ground balls.

Two players, identities unknown, are to come to the Columbus Red Birds in addition to a bundle of cash in exchange for Shortstop Bill Myers, who has developed into one of the keenest infielders in the American association—Just who the players are of course won't be known until next spring but it wouldn't surprise us to see either or both Bill Shores, right handed pitcher, or Homer Peel, hard hitting right handed outfielder, in the deal. $25,000 is the reported cash item.

The Birds added a ball player, Sunday, in the person of Milton Bocek, right handed outfielder, on option from the Chicago White Sox. Bocek, a speed merchant, is a University of Wisconsin alum. Does it mean the end of Hal Anderson, who didn't get a hit in Sunday's double header?

LITTLE PROGRESS IS BEING reported in the Pickaway Country Club championship golf tournament—Qualifying scores were to have been reported two weeks ago but few golfers have turned in their scores. It is believed the greens committee will go ahead and match the club's sharpshooters without reference to the scores. The tennis tournament, in its early stages, is drawing considerable interest and shuffle-board, too, is getting a play.

MYERS TO FOLLOW TRAVIS JACKSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Looking forward to the day when the brilliant Travis Jackson decides to fold up and call it a career, the Giants have acquired a new shortstop.

He is identified as Billy Myers, and his purchase from the Columbus club of the American association compelled a generous outlay of cash, it was learned today.

The information available would indicate that Myers is on the smallest side, a sort of younger edition of Hughie Critz. He's 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 145 pounds.

2 IN CADY'S COURT

Activity in Mayor W. B. Cady's police court was at a low ebb over the week-end, with only two persons called in for violations.

Harold Terry, 619 Maplewood-ave, was being held in the city jail awaiting a hearing before Mayor Cady on a charge of driving while intoxicated, following his arrest at 6:40 p. m. Sunday, south of this city, by Roy Carey, state highway patrolman.

Clarence W. Willoughby, 16, of Circleville R. F. D. 3, arrested by police officers for intoxication, was turned over to Juvenile Officer Frank Goff. His case will be heard before Judge C. C. Young.

of commerce inspectors today. Among those who witnessed her violent death was Helen Richey, of McKeesport, Pa., with whom Mrs. Marsalis established the woman's endurance refueling record at Miami, Fla., last winter. Mrs. Richey was flying in the same race in another ship.

Most witnesses agreed that Mrs. Marsalis' craft dived into the ground after it was caught in the backwash of five other speeding planes as it banked for a turn around a pylon in the 50-mile race. Mrs. Marsalis was on the fourth lap of the five-lap race when the accident occurred.

SAW NOSE DROP

Arthur Mumma, Dayton, a judge stationed in the pylon near the scene of the accident, said he noticed Mrs. Marsalis' plane "drop down as she came out of the bank. She hit nose first with the motor roaring."

She was still alive when she was extricated from the wreckage but died within a few minutes. The plane did not burn.

Frank Wollery, a farmer who witnessed the crash, reported: "Mrs. Marsalis made a sharp bank. She seemed to dip down as she straightened out. She apparently misjudged her distance for she crashed to the field, with her motor full on and when she hit the plane rolled over a dozen times."

"It finally came to a stop about 200 feet from where she hit. I helped get her out of the wreckage and she appeared to be almost dead."

Mrs. Marsalis, who made her home at Garden City, L. I., was the wife of William Marsalis, a transport pilot for a trans-continental air line. They were divorced at Augusta, Ga., on August 1 and Marsalis' intimates said he would not claim his ex-wife's body for burial but allow her family to arrange the last rites for her.

With the possible exception of Mrs. Ruth Nichols, Mrs. Marsalis was believed to have had more flying hours to her credit than any other woman flyer. She first learned to fly at her former home at Centerville, Texas and in 1932 set her first endurance refueling record with Mrs. Louise Thaden when she remained aloft above Long Island for eight days, four hours and five minutes.

While on that flight, she had the refueling ship drop her some hair pins and a powder puff and the incident added a touch of unusual glamor to her career and her ship was called the "flying boudoir." Pilots who knew her described her as "absolutely fearless."

Mrs. Marsalis was in her early thirties.

But since the start will be made within the next few days regardless of the number entered, makes it imperative for those who might be thinking of entering to get their names in at once if they wish to wage their campaign without the handicap of a late start.

One of the biggest aids to the contestants will be the reduction in price of The Herald which will only be in effect during the contest. As high as $2.60 per year saving can be offered the subscribers by the workers in the contest. This in itself will make it easier for those who take part.

One obligates himself in no way by entering the Salesmanship Club. It is strictly a spare time proposition and all one is asked to do is to devote his spare time to the work. But all who expect to take part are urged to get their names in at once so as to start at the beginning.

15 RECEIVE HOME LOANS IN COUNTY

Fifteen needy home owners in Pickaway-co have been aided by Home Owners Loan corporation of Ohio, in its first year of existence, according to a statement made Monday by Henry G. Brunner, state manager, showing that the facilities of the HOLC have been spread to every county in the state.

The total amount of money involved in Pickaway's 15 loans was $26,539.85, the statement shows. A total of 55,000 loans with an approximate value of $175,000,000 have been made in Ohio.

Loans and their amounts in surrounding counties are: Fairfield, 116, $236,893.02; Fayette, 77, $121,325.88; Ross, 118, $269,427.90; Hocking, 78, $150,174.11, and Vinton, 6, $9,558.55.

2 CONVICTS SHOT

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 6.—One convict was slain and another seriously wounded when they attempted to escape from the state prison here today.

The slain prisoner was Mansel Rinker, serving fifty years for bank robbery, and the wounded man was John O'Brien, serving thirty years for first degree robbery.

STRAW RICK BURNS

A large straw rick and a rail fence were destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon when the head flew from a match struck by Junior, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Morris, at whose home in Perry-twp the fire occurred. The Williamsport fire department was called to protect a barn.

One well was pumped dry by the engine and another was almost exhausted.

HITLER PAYS

Recalling that the latest president had called him to power as chancellor, thus inaugurating Nazi regime, the reichsleaders said:

"It was President Von Hindenburg who witnessed the miracle of German resurrection under the new national Socialists rule."

Concluding his speech with a dramatic gesture at 12:24 p. m. (7:14 a. m. eastern daylight time), Hitler, speaking in a low voice into the microphone, declared:

"ETERNAL PATRON"

"Field Marshal Von Hindenburg is not dead. He hovers over us among the immortals of our people as the eternal patron of the German reich and the German nation."

"May God bless our work and give us the power to fight for Germany's freedom and independence and world peace."

The memorial services in the Kroll Opera house, broadcast to the nation and throughout the world by special arrangements began promptly at the scheduled hour of noon.

General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, aviation minister in the reich cabinet, and premier of Prussia, opened the session in the capacity of president of the Reichstag, with full attendance by deputies and the diplomatic gallery filled.

One of the first of the foreign diplomatic representatives to appear was United States Ambassador William E. Dodd. He wore a top hat and morning coat and was accompanied by Mrs. Dodd.

The interior of the Reichstag presented a vast symphony in brown and black, the uniforms respectively of the Nazi storm troops and Hitler's own special guard. The members of the cabinet who were not in brown shirts appeared in conventional black mourning dress.

CROWN PRINCE THERE

The former Crown Prince Frederick William, with many generals of the old imperial army, appeared in military uniforms.

On Hitler's entry the entire assemblage rose and General Goering, amid dead silence, announced: "I state that the Reichstag has risen in honor and in respect to our dead field marshal."

The orchestra played the Beethoven Coriolanus overture as the Reichsleiter and other members of the cabinet took their seats and as the music concluded Hitler began his eulogy of the late president, whose greatest historical merit, he said, was that he opened the doors to Nazi rule which was identical to "Opening the doors to the youth of Germany."

Hitler had written the speech yesterday afternoon and then rewritten it in the privacy of his study last night. Before he left the chancellery for the Kroll Opera house he placed the only copy in his pocket and even his intimates were unaware of the contents of his address until he appeared before the microphone.

Gen. Goering concluded the memorial services with a short tribute to the old field marshal. "We should keep the memory of the great president awake in our hearts, now and in all future times," he said.

At 12:35 p. m. Goering announced that the memorial services were at an end and the deputies and guests silently filed out of the opera house.

Hitler, passing through files of storm troopers, black shirts and Reichswehr troops, entered an automobile with Gen. Goering and Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and returned to Wilhelmstrasse.

The rioters then set fire to the houses and, when the Jewish inhabitants were forced into the streets, the attackers shot them down and stabbed them.

A battalion of Sengesele soldiers, a company of gendarmes and hundreds of police from surrounding towns rushed into Constantine to aid in restoring order. Firemen came from Algiers to prevent a disastrous spread of fire. It was only with great difficulty that the flames were extinguished.

HELD CITY 24 HOURS

Despite the strength of the forces opposing them, the Mohammedan rioters held the city for more than 24 hours, keeping everyone else out of the streets in the center of the city, which has a population of more than 100,000.

As the soldiers and police finally approached the rioters they found them singing and dancing in the streets, yelling in crazed tones: "Death to the Jews!"

politics throughout his life. He journeyed across the continent, and emphasized only that Washington is seeking to provide a larger and fuller life for the average individual. He constitutes what the politicians call "smart" politics, then Mr. Roosevelt is playing it. But so far as partisanship, in the narrow sense, is concerned, that is out. Thus far he has asked for the election of nobody, notwithstanding that there are spirited campaigns in progress in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, the four states through which he has passed and which in themselves constitute the empire of the northwest.

At Bonneville, in Oregon, where the federal government is spending many millions of dollars on a huge power and navigation project he painted a picture of ocean-going vessels invading the wheat country in the future to open up new outlets to foreign markets. At the Grand Coulee, in Washington, a power and irrigation project, also the beneficiary of federal millions, he envisioned a development that will ultimately draw into the northwest millions of people from the crowded cities, where employment no longer exists for them and from the drought-stricken marginal lands where they are now unable to make a living.

"SEE AMERICA FIRST"

And in the Glacier National park last night, the President painted its glories to the country and urged Americans to "See America First." At the end of a thrill-filled day, filled with glaciers, lakes, trees, and incredibly beautiful mountains, Mr. Roosevelt took the air and over a national radio hookup told the country that if these scenic wonders were only located in Europe "Thousands of Americans would journey all the way across the ocean in order to see its beauties."

Mr. Roosevelt conceded that in the great outpouring of federal funds which his administration has authorized, the sparsely-populated states of the west and north-west have had more than their proportionate share. He conceded that the people of other states have been and are being taxed to provide these sums. But he defended it on the ground of broad

ABOUT STATEMENT

After reading the essay upon the "Political Expediency of Selecting Candidates Geographically" which appeared in your issue of Saturday, Aug. 4th, and written by Mr. Bohrer, I feel it necessary to make a statement in answer to it. I respect Mr. Bohrer and hold his friendship in esteem, but I am compelled to differ with his views upon the selection of candidates at the primaries.

In the few years in which I have been interested in government I have found this to be true, and with very few exceptions, that the great majority of men and women, regardless of political affiliations, who have sought and gained county offices have given of their services conscientiously and whole-heartedly and to the best of their ability, and that the mistakes which they may have made were of the mind and not of the heart. I am thoroughly convinced that most of these officers have been at all times interested in the whole county, Rural and Urban, and without regard to their personal Post Office address.

There are five candidates in field for the office of Representative to the General Assembly; two will be nominated and one will ultimately be elected. As one of those candidates and in fairness and honesty to the others I know and am convinced that whichever one shall be our county's choice for this office, he will give his very best in its service and he will to the best of his ability endeavor to serve the whole county regardless of his present residence.

It is only natural that I would take exception to Mr. Bohrer's seeming desire to bar Republicans from holding office in Pickaway County. It would be well to remember that although the minority party in our county, they represent a large amount on the tax duplicate. And I am quite confident that the majority of fair-minded and thinking Democrats would find very little objection in electing a Republican if his qualifications merited such.

Allow me to offer this advice to the voters of Pickaway county, Study well the candidates on your ticket, consider first his qualifications, allowing your sympathies and his need for the job only secondary consideration, then go to the polls and vote according to your findings and forget about geography.

M. A. Sosenbrenner.

AN ADVERTISEMENT THAT WILL INTEREST ONLY A FEW

Only a few people will answer this advertisement. But those few will be fortunate.

What is your spare time worth? The Circleville Herald through its "Salesmanship Club" will award $950.00 in cash prizes to those who take part and devote six weeks of their spare time in getting subscriptions and renewals to this newspaper. In addition to the $950.00, several hundred dollars has been set aside to pay commissions to those who take part and fail to win one of the prizes.

The "Salesmanship Club" has been well advertised for the past several days but up until the present time only a few have entered. The mere fact that few have entered makes the opportunity even greater for some live wire person to join the campaign and win the $500 first prize.

Just why more people have not entered is puzzling. However, the campaign will soon be opened, and every prize will be awarded, exactly as advertised. And everyone who fails to win a prize will be paid a commission on every subscription they secure, provided they abide by the rules.

But as stated above—this advertisement will interest only a few. But most important to you, will YOU be one of the number? The campaign is strictly a spare time proposition. You obligate yourself in no way by entering. If you work you will be paid for your time—paid in cash. If you are interested telephone 782—call at the Herald office in person—mail a letter or postcard—and all information will be furnished. But to get in on this proposition you must act at once!

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

CHAPTER I. This story happened in the Ozark Mountains, not many years ago. The Ozarks, as you no doubt know, are in southern Missouri and northern Arkansas. The neighborhood of the story is not far from the boundary line which separates the two states; but for reasons which you will understand later I shall not say on which side of the line. For the same good reasons I will substitute names of my own invention for the people and places mentioned. In these days of federal watchfulness and easy libel one cannot be too careful. In all save these small but most necessary exceptions I shall tell the truth.

About forty miles, as the crow flies, from the Haskel place, a narrow-gauge baby railroad escaped from its parents one day, and wandered and crawled through the woods and between and over the hills until it lost itself and stopped, too tired to go farther, too discouraged to go back. On the exact spot where the baby railroad gave up the ghost they built a shack for a boy telegrapher, a turntable for a toy locomotive, and a hut for a handcar, and called it all Wilderness Station.

From the station Wilderness Road drags itself fourteen lazy, crooked miles further into the wooded hills, fording the creeks in the narrow valleys, loafing along the hillsides, and toiling over the ridges until it climbs heavily up to Pine Knob store, which is on Pine Ridge at the foot of Pine Knob. Crossing the more pretentious Ridge Highway at the store, our road saunters indifferently on down a hogback to the Haskel place, where it hesitates a bit before moving on through the woods to its final destination—Wilderness Lodge. Wilderness Lodge is a clubhouse on a bluff overlooking Cold River, where a group of city folks spend their summer vacations.

Uncle Jimmie Cartwright says: "Hit air plum' humorous the way them Lodge folks wear themselves out a-tryin' to rest from wearin' themselves out so's they can go back to the city an' wear themselves out some more."

It was a sunny morning in early summer. "Cawn-plantin'" was well past. In the bottom field of Ann Haskel's little backwoods farm the rows of green blades could already be seen from the log house on the hillside. A few days more and it would be time to begin cultivating; the Ozark farmers call it "plow-in."

Uncle Jimmie was working his slow passage along Wilderness Road between the Lodge and the Haskel place on his way to Pine Knob store to "fetch a new pint for his cawn plow an' a passel of store tobacco for the old woman." I say "working his passage" because Uncle Jimmie was riding an ancient and melancholy mule and at every reluctant step of his unwilling mount the little old dried-up wrinkled mountaineer's head thumped a hollow resounding thump on the gray skeleton's ribs, while Uncle Jimmie's gray head bobbed and his white chin-whiskers wagged and jerked in perfect time to the mournful tune.

As he laboriously approached the Haskel house (a log house of rather more imposing proportions than the typical backwoods home of the Ozark mountaineer) Uncle Jimmie scanned the premises with careful interest. He was wondering if it would be his fortune, that morning, to "meet up" with Ann Haskel, or Nance, or Jeff. Perhaps, if Ann were in a kindly mood—perhaps she would invite him to "light" and rest himself for a spell. She might even offer a swig of real mountain hospitality. Or Jeff, if he were around, might, in a neighborly spirit—that is, Jeff might if Ann were away. Uncle Jimmie's blue eyes sparkled and he touched his dry lips with his tongue in pleased anticipation of what could so easily happen. It was likely though, he reflected, that Jeff would be plowing corn down in the bottom field; Ann Haskel always was a full week ahead of everybody else. As for Nance—Nance wouldn't dare to give a feller so much as a drink of spring water without askin' Ann if she could.

Ahah, the mule, suddenly achieved a full stop.

Uncle Jimmie remonstrated, emphasizing his protest with vigorous heels and arms.

"You dad-burned old reprobate, what you stoppin' fer now! Giddap! Go 'long, blast you! You ain't got nothin' to think about; if you had, it's ain't no time to be a-thinkin' 'bout hit. If a body war a-dyin' of thirst within ha'-a-quarter of a drink you wouldn't kee a hoot. Giddap! I ought to jest natchally git down right hyeah an' hang your measly hide on the fence. Git along, will ye? G-e-e-u-salem-on-ye? Ain't you never goin' to stir your fool se'f?"

Had Ahab inherited the genius of his paternal ancestors who served in somewhat similar circumstances under the illustrious Balaam, he probably would have retorted: "You dad-burned old hill-billy, ain't you got no eyes in your fool head ter see what I'm a-seein'?" As it was, he mere pointed with his huge ears.

Uncle Jimmie looked.

age when most men of his wealth are content to eat and sleep in the quiet pastures of retirement.

Diane was little more than a baby when her mother died. Mrs. Carroll's sister Jessica, a Virginia widow without children of her own, became mistress of the Carroll home and, so far as it was possible for such a woman to mother such a child, mothered Bill's daughter. But it was written that as mentor and guide to the only child of the house of Carroll, Aunt Jessica should find her responsibilities at times somewhat trying. Aided and abetted by a father who delighted in flouting Aunt Jessica's canons of culture and in violating the established laws of social propriety, Diane, as she grew into womanhood, developed a spirit and personality as unlike Aunt Jessica's model young lady as Aunt Jessica, herself, was unlike her rebellious

Less than fifty yards away a young woman was sitting before an easel.

"Wal, I'll be— Why'n heck didn't you say so?"

Less than fifty yards away a young woman was sitting before an easel, at work with brushes and colors upon a fairly large canvas.

For several minutes the old mountaineer and his melancholy mule contemplated the strange sight with silent wonder. Then Ahab, at a jerk of the rope reins, turned aside from the road with surprising willingness. Wise in the ways of his master, he knew that it would probably be some time before he would be called upon to move again.

Diane Carroll was young enough to be of this generation of freedom, and old enough to do her own thinking. Her abundance of feminine charm she inherited from her mother, who was a daughter of a famous governor of Virginia. Her self-reliance and her amazing indifference to the social tenets of the caste into which she was born she, without doubt, inherited from her father, who, in his day, had defied the family traditions and rebelled against the authority of his clan in the same spirit of joyous adventure.

Born to the traditional silver spoon, but impelled, perhaps, by the blood of some sportsman ancestor to old-fashioned ideas of sportsmanship, Bill Carroll had elected to play the game of life for the sake of the game itself. He had fought, not for the gate receipts, but for the sheer joy of fighting. Equipping himself with an engineer's degree, he had gone West to serve in the ranks of his profession when Arizona, Montana, and Nevada were young. He made a fortune—which he did not need—in copper, was a Rough Rider with Roosevelt, took a hand in politics, and finally died in harness at an brother-in-law.

"The poor child," Aunt Jessica frequently complained in weary despair, "grows more like her father every day. What in the world am I to do?"

What, indeed, was she to do? What was anybody to do? Bill Carroll, understanding his daughter as no one else could, and instinctively believing in her genius, encouraged her to study art seriously.

"Don't dabble at it," he would say. "If you have no appreciation of the great souls who are giving themselves through the medium of form and color to the enrichment of human life, you can, at least, be decent enough to refrain from making a plaything out of what, to them, is most vital to their existence. Dabblers are an abomination unto the Lord. Their dabbling is an insult to every real worker whose work is a grim necessity."

Diane did not "dabble." In the same spirit which led sons of wealth and social position to enlist as buck privates in the Great War, she enlisted to serve her apprenticeship with those self-supporting, self-respecting, self-sufficient but poverty-stricken students who dare to stake the years of their life in the great gamble. As desperately as they worked and played and lived she worked and played and lived.

Aunt Jessica was scandalized, but helpless. The girl's father "gloried in her spirit," and rooted for her madly as he watched her playing the game without fear or favor. When her first picture was accepted, Bill staged a celebration at home which would have stunned Diane's fellow-students in Paris. It sent Aunt Jessica to bed for a week.

Leist Pledges His Aid To Party; Harmony Is Urged

Declaring that he has not declined re-election as chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee because of ill health, and likewise stating that the job has not been a "thankless" one as reported in Saturday's Herald, C. A. Leist, local attorney, made a statement Monday concerning his stewardship and pledging his cooperation and assistance wherever he can be used to the advantage of his party.

There is no need to comment upon Mr. Leist's communication since it clearly explains itself. It follows:

"I wish you would please publish a correction on the article in your issue of Saturday, August 4th, which was headed:—

"SUCCESSOR TO LEIST STUDIED."

"First: 'My Health' has been very good for the past four years, and I have not declined re-election as Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee by any reason of 'poor health.'

"Second: I have not declined re-election because it was a 'thankless job' as was stated in the above article.

"RECEIVED HONOR"

"I wish to state that I have received much honor while holding the position of Chairman of the Committee, and the Committee, to a man, has acted loyally and harmoniously with me during the four years I have been chairman, and it has been a pleasure to me to serve as their Chairman, for the past four years.

"We have been having strenuous times throughout the nation and the Committee and its Chairman were not always able to secure positions for applicants, but we, as Committee members and Chairman, have worked together and have done the best we could.

"I have said to the Committee that I would not seek re-election because I was very busy with my law practice as well as being engaged in farming, all of which took a great part of my time; that to properly fill the office of Chairman, at least a month's hard work is required before an election, during which month, the Chairman must devote almost his entire time to his work in that capacity. I felt that as I had had the office and its accompanying honors for four years, I wanted to surrender the helm to some other good Democrat to share the honors of the position.

"I desire to emphatically state, at this time, that I am, and always will be willing and ready to lend my aid as best I can in furtherance of the Democracy of Pickaway-co, and if chosen in any capacity other than chairman, will continue to serve to the best of my ability and the fullest extent possible on the Democratic Executive Committee.

"I wish further to correct the impression left by an article written by Mr. Bohnert, and likewise published in your August 4th issue, that 'all candidates, except County Commissioner are from the City of Circleville.'

"In addition to the candidate for Commissioner, two of the candidates for Recorder and two for Representative now live in the County; two of the candidates for Sheriff, two for Treasurer, two others for recorder, and one for Common Pleas Judge, were all born and raised in the country, and educated in country schools.

"We have a good lot of candidates from which to select for county offices all of which are capable of filling the offices they are seeking, and we can hardly make a mistake in our nominations, and all of our nominees will be elected, unless we let petty differences between city and country tear us asunder. We sincerely hope that this article

Cheer up! When you are worried you can't work right, you lose sleep, you are subject to all the ills and ailments; in fact, you are far below par in every way. Today most people's worries are money worries and it is foolish, because it is so simple to borrow what money you need at The City Loan on West Main Street in Circleville on your own signature for any personal use. Welch For Congress

Nominate a man who can be elected in November and a man you know will give Circleville and Pickaway County a square deal.

Well qualified. Eighteen years experience in educational work as teacher and public speaker.

Two years special training in legislative work.

Mr. Welch is State Representative in Ohio Legislature.

Endorsed by Chairman of Labor, of Agriculture, and Schools of Ohio Legislature. Endorsed by Democratic Floor Leader Ohio Legislature, and other prominent Democratic Leaders in the State.

Cooperative with President Roosevelt and has helped to make his program possible in Ohio.

The feeling is pronounced against Mr. Underwood for a seventh term, and it is agreed that it is time to give someone else a chance.

It is conceded that Mr. Welch is the logical candidate and that he is the man to nominate, because he can be elected in November.

Mr. Welch was born in Circleville, has real estate here and has been a tax payer here for more than 20 years. No one will be willing to do more for Circleville and Pickaway County than Mr. Welch.

AFTER 5 HARD SETS—

AT THE TOP OF THE HEAP IN TENNIS! That is the enviable position of Ellsworth Vines, Jr., the spectacular young Pasadena athletic star who holds the U. S. National Championships for 1931 and 1932, and has now swept through the 1934 professional ranks as well!

YOU'LL enjoy this pleasing "Energizing Effect —"

When you've used up your energy at work or play—smoke a Camel and notice how soon you feel your flow of natural energy snap back.

This experience, long known to Camel smokers, has now been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory. Camel smokers enjoy a positive "energizing effect"—a healthful and delightful release of natural, vibrant energy. Millions have found this to be true. A typical Camel experience is this, Ellsworth Vines, Jr. speaking—

"Championship tennis is one of the fastest of modern sports. After four or five sets, you sometimes feel that you just can't take another step. That's when a Camel tastes like a million dollars. Not only does the rich, mellow fragrance appeal to my taste, but Camels have a refreshing way of bringing my energy up to a higher level. And I can smoke all the Camels I want, for they don't interfere with my nerves."

So, whenever you want a "lift," just smoke a Camel. You can smoke them steadily. For the finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never get on your nerves.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Editor's Note:—This is the concluding article on the Arthurdale, W. Va., homestead project. Other Merry-Go-Round articles on the New Deal will appear in the near future.

W. Virginia Homesteaders Show Gratitude and Faith in Government

ARTHURDALE, W. Va.,—Every homesteader at Arthurdale talks like a forgotten man who has been remembered. There is contentment, gratitude, and a simple faith that "the Government will take care of us."

On many walls hang framed pictures of the man who has become their household god—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Doak, a homesteader who looks too frail ever to have mined coal, volunteered an indirect explanation of this psychology.

"I never heard my alarm clock before I came here," he said. "I had to get up at three in the morning, but I was always awake. Here I have a hard time getting up at six."

"I had to get up at three to be at work at the mine by seven—back in the mine. I had to walk four miles to the mine and three miles into it after I got there. Yes, there was a trolley car but wages was so low that if you rode you didn't eat. I loaded coal for 22 cents a ton."

"I hear wages are better now, they're getting five dollars a day. But I wouldn't go back—no sir, not for twice that."

His neighbor Jamison interrupted.

"Yes, things is better in the mines now this man has come in." "What man do you mean?"

"Why, Roosevelt. You heard of him, ain't you? We had scab times before ever since '25 when the unions broke down. Now he's making things better. Yes, sir, he's the laborer's friend."

"And Mrs. Roosevelt," prompted Doak. "She come here last winter when we was livin' at the Mansion House—just the workin' men, you know, and she sat down to dinner with us and talked to us and then told us to ask her questions. I'll tell you what she is—she's just like an old-fashioned mother."

Disillusionment?

Faith is so strong, devotion so deep in these people that one wonders what may be their disillusionment should their Utopian dream be punctured. What also are their chances of self-support? And their chances of harmonious cooperation so essential to any homesteading plan?

The Government of course, paid for clearing their land and building their houses. And now they are repaying the Government. They are repaying at the rate of $20 a month and they pay twenty years. At the end of that time they will have paid up $4,800.

So far the cooperative plan has worked successfully. There is no indication that the paternal hand has spoiled them. Work is still hard. It was their own last winter, through sub-zero weather, scrub and brush, drained the swamps, laid the ten miles of "red dog" road, ploughed, harrowed, fertilized, planted the land, and put up the fifty houses on it.

That was before the families came. The men all lived together at the Mansion House with a cook to feed them, working through the week and going home on Sunday to tell the folks about it.

The cooperative idea during this period functioned perfectly. But in the future it may be more difficult. The present plan is the establishment of a factory near Arthurdale which will give a living wage to each head of a family.

In addition, each homesteader has his garden patch capable of raising more vegetables than he needs. This surplus is to be traded in at the cooperative store. No cash is given in return, but a credit, against which the homesteader can draw shoes, shirts, butter and milk until his credit is exhausted. In this way it is hoped to avoid dependence on current market prices.

Bids for material and construction of the system were opened last Friday at noon in the auditorium of the new school building by Clerk Fred J. Hines in the presence of the Board of Public Affairs, Consulting Engineer Niple and about 75 contractors and material men.

The bids were inspected by a government official as to regularity and then tabulated. The board reserved its decision over the week-end and arranged for its meeting this evening.

REPORT MOVEMENT TO ENTHRONE OTTO

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg is leaving for Budapest at the end of the week, it was learned from official sources today, to discuss important questions with the Hungarian government.

It is believed probable that a restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy with the young Archduke Otto on the throne is under consideration.

Otto is still at his castle near Brussels, Belgium, with his mother, the former Empress Zita, according to all available information here, despite reports that he has been seen in Italy.

The Belgian government has promised to keep the Austrian foreign office advised of all Otto's moves. It is thought highly unlikely that he would be able to slip away from the castle Ham without detection by Belgian secret service men who are watching his moves.

POLITICAL RALLY SET NEXT MONDAY

One of the largest political meetings to be held in the county before the primary next Tuesday is scheduled for next Monday when a new park, named in honor of President Roosevelt, will be opened on the Ben Metzgar farm in Wayne-town.

The event will be an all-day outing with a fish fry scheduled for the afternoon and dancing in the evening. All of the proceeds of the meeting will go to the Wayne-town Parent-Teachers' association.

All committeemen and their friends have been especially urged to attend. All of the candidates present will be asked to give short talks.

Mrs. Etta Smith, Deer Creek-Twp., Dies of Typhoid; Three Children Ill.

Mrs. Etta Smith, 44, wife of Scott Smith, Deer Creek-Twp., died in Berger hospital Sunday morning of typhoid fever. She was taken to the hospital last Friday.

Her daughter, Ruth, 10, is reported seriously ill and two smaller children are also ill. Dr. G. D. Sheets, Williamsport, is in charge of the case and is working with Dr. C. C. Beale, county health commissioner.

The Smith family has been obtaining its drinking water from an old well and Dr. Beale believes the water is contaminated. A sample of it has been sent to the state board of health for analysis but Dr. Beale has not yet received a report.

HAS SEVEN CHILDREN There are seven children in the Smith family and Drs. Sheets and Beale inoculated them last week. They intended to repeat the treatment Monday.

Mrs. Smith was a native of Pickaway-co being born Feb. 28, 1890, a daughter of Jacob and Margaret Johnson Stonerock. She married Scott Smith in March 1906. Besides the husband the following survive: children, Mrs. Myrtle Lingo and Mrs. Ora Rutherford, Williamsport, and Susan, Woodrow, Charles, Ruth and Norma Jean, at home; brother, Chauncey Stonerock, this city; sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Martin, this city, and Mrs. Minnie Downing, Williamsport.

WILEY POST WORKS FOR ALTITUDE MARK

AKRON, Aug. 6.—Wiley Post, noted around-the-world flyer, today continued his preparations for a world's record altitude flight after a test trip yesterday carried him to a height of 38,000 feet.

Post did not wear his specially designed "stratosphere" rubber suit. He said the temperature at the zenith of his hop was only 70 degrees below zero and that there was no great difference in atmospheric pressure. The flight required one hour and 35 minutes.

His record-breaking attempt will be made at Chicago this fall.

CANDIDATE HERE

James T. Murray, Republican candidate for state central committee from the 11th congressional district, was a visitor in the city Monday. Mr. Murray is operator of the Sunnybrook Coal Co. and at present is the president of the Perry-co board of commissioners.

The plan of the campaign is such that no matter where you live, whether in Circleville, on a rural route or in any small town or community in the county you have the same chance of winning first prize as anyone.

While a few have entered in Circleville, the territory in the county is almost entirely unrepresented. This situation makes it all the more attractive for those living in the "outside" territory to come in and score big in the campaign.

The campaign has not yet started. No one has started in the work of getting subscriptions. Continued On Page Two

HITLER PAYS RESPECTS TO DEAD LEADER

"Symbol of a Germany That Cannot Be Destroyed" Says Feurher

SPEAKS TO NATION

Notables of Nation Fill Reich's Chamber

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Opening the Reichstag memorial services in the Kroll Opera house shortly after noon today, Reichsleiter Adolf Hitler described President Paul Von Hindenburg as "The symbol of a Germany that cannot be destroyed, always rejuvenating the vitality of our nation."

Hitler's speech, which consumed exactly fourteen minutes in delivery, was devoted largely to eulogizing the late president.

Describing the time and the history of Von Hindenburg's death the reichsleiter pointed out that Europe was then in the "Claws of Jacobinism and torn by revolutionary trends."

"The Reich (federated Germany) and Italy did not exist at the time," he continued.

He referred briefly to the formation of the German empire after the Franco-Prussian war.

"When Chancellor Bismarck spoke the first 'Hoch' under the first Kaiser, the young lieutenant's (Hindenburg's) sword flashed to the sky swearing allegiance to the Kaiser and the Reich," he added.

RECALLS TANNENBERG

The reichsleiter then paid tribute to Von Hindenburg's war achievements.

"Since the battle of Tannenberg," he explained, "the name of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has been inseparably linked with the greatest struggle of the World war."

"If the political leadership of Germany had been equal to his military leadership Germany would have been spared the gravest humiliation."

Von Hindenburg's peace-time virtues, Hitler told the throng assembled in the Kroll Opera house, equalled his military achievements. Continued On Page Two

GOV. OLSON TO BREAK STRIKE

Orders Strict Regulations As Truck Warfare Continues 21st Day.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 6.—Governor Floyd B. Olson, as commander in chief of the national guard, today "cracked down" on both sides in the Minneapolis truck drivers strike.

Gov. Olson clamped a rigid dictatorship over the city by ordering military authorities to keep off the streets all trucks except those carrying necessities, such as bread, milk, ice, fuel and gasoline. This was a blow aimed at the employers. At the same time he struck at the strikers by ordering the national guardsmen to stop all picketing.

The governor's order, became effective at 12:01 a. m., today. Previously he had set midnight as the "deadline" for both sides to get together and end the strike by agreeing to the revised peace proposal of the federal mediators, the Rev. Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunnigan.

Olson declared his order would expose the "chisellers" among the employers and show "where the fault rests for this situation."

It was plain the governor's order was resigned to "break" the strike—now in its twenty-first day. He had previously asserted both sides had had plenty of time to reach an agreement.

Jasper Pritchard Passes Ninety-four Hoping to Reach His Hundredth Year

Native of West Virginia Reads Without Glasses, Shucks Corn, Walks Back and Forth To Town.

Believed to be Circleville's oldest man, Jasper N. Pritchard, celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday, Sunday, at the home of his grandson Russell Kneice, Circleville-Twp., where he makes his home.

Mr. Pritchard, who retains all his faculties and who neither smokes nor drinks, spent the day reminiscing with relatives who took part in a picnic dinner at the Kneice home.

The aged man expects to reach 100 and taking into consideration his present health it seems that he will be able to reach the century mark. He never wears glasses and even reads newspapers and the Bible, his chosen diversions, without them. He walks into town and back by himself and in 1933 shucked 100 shocks of corn.

Mr. Pritchard is a native of (Continued on Page Two)

Jews, Mohammedans Fight In Algeria; 70 Reported Badly Hurt.

CONSTANTINE, Algeria, Aug. 6.—More than 20 persons were reported killed and 70 wounded in brutal and bloody mob fighting between Jews and Mohammedans here today.

The riotous battling broke out when reports circulated that a Jewish soldier entered a mosque and insulted worshippers, invaded the city's ghetto, set fire to houses, and dragged Jewish men, women and children out into the streets to stab and beat them.

The fighting lasted 36 hours before soldiers could put an end to it.

RESERVES RUSHED

Fearing that the high tension still existing may result in further rioting, authorities rushed French reserves here from Algiers.

ANXIETY RELIEVED, BYRD'S PARTY ABLE TO TALK WITH HIM

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 6.—(Via Mackay radio) Radio communication with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in his ship, the Endurance, which is about 122 miles south of this city, has been restored after a silence of more than a week during which there was some anxiety concerning his welfare. After broadcast, the Admiral daily the radio operator here picked up a message from him saying that his receiver was not functioning.

The tractor expedition which started for Admiral Byrd's camp soon after he became silent and had to turn back because a blizzard raged constantly, has started out again.

CANDIDATES BEGIN FINAL WEEK'S TASK

State Interest Divided Between Senate and Governor Contests

OUTCOME IN DOUBT

Four States to Travel to Polls Tuesday

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—Down the stretch in the most hectic race in years thundered candidates in Ohio's primary election today.

A busy final week of campaigning faced each of the 70 major and minor candidates on the Republican and Democratic state tickets. They have only until next Monday night to sell themselves to the voters of their party.

On Tuesday, August 14, Ohioans will stream to the polls to decide which Democrats and which Republicans will have their names on the ballot next November, when this state elects a United States senator, governor, a host of minor state officers and 24 congressmen.

CENTERED ON PAIR

Interest naturally centers in the contests for U. S. senator and governor. Sen. Simon D. P. Deen, Yellow Springs, whose senate seat is at stake, has four Republican opponents for re-nomination, which his friends say will insure his success at the primary.

The three-cornered Democratic senatorial race continued to present one of the puzzles of the primary. Many observers feel that the fight between Gov. George White and Congressman Charles West, Granville, the "New Deal" candidate, will reduce the vote of each to such an extent that victory by former Gov. Vic Donahy will be easy, but this belief is not unanimous by any means.

CLARK AND FRILEY TRIALS SCHEDULED

Former Ashville Man to Face Bar August 16; Friley Four Days Later.

Glenn "Spikely" Clark, of Columbus, formerly of Ashville, the reputed leader of the quartet which allegedly committed a number of Ashville robberies, will go on trial Thursday, August 16, Judge J. W. Adkins announced Monday.

Jesse Friley, another member of the bandit ring, who faces several grand jury indictments in connection with the robberies, will be placed on trial August 20, Judge Adkins said.

The third member of the gang, Carroll Loudon, is already in Mansfield reformatory to serve terms on five indictments, and it is probable that he will be returned here to testify in the trials of his two former pals.

Clark has been indicted on five charges while Friley faces but three.

While pleading guilty before Judge Adkins last week to five charges of robbery, Loudon declared that the other two, Clark and Friley, had threatened to kill him "if he told anything."

John Henry Preston, colored, the fourth alleged member of the ring, who has also been indicted, has not been captured yet, although an intensive search is still being waged.

AN ADVERTISEMENT THAT WILL INTEREST ONLY A FEW

Only a few people will answer this advertisement. But those few will be fortunate.

What is your spare time worth? The Circleville Herald through its "Salesmanship Club" will award $950.00 in cash prizes to those who take part and devote six weeks of their spare time in getting subscriptions and renewals to this newspaper. In addition to the $950.00, several hundred dollars has been set aside to pay commissions to those who take part and fail to win one of the prizes.

The "Salesmanship Club" has been well advertised for the past several days but up until the present time only a few have entered. The mere fact that few have entered makes the opportunity even greater for some live wire person to join the campaign and win the $500 first prize.

Just why more people have not entered is puzzling. However, the campaign will soon be opened, and every prize will be awarded, exactly as advertised. And everyone who fails to win a prize will be paid a commission on every subscription they secure, provided they abide by the rules.

But as stated above—this advertisement will interest only a few. But most important to you, will YOU be one of the number? The campaign is strictly a spare time proposition. You obligate yourself in no way by entering. If you work you will be paid for your time—paid in cash. If you are interested telephone 782—call at the Herald office in person—mail a letter or postcard—and all information will be furnished. But to get in on this proposition you must act at once!

You'll find it in the.

one considers the artificial nature of the agricultural service from University of West Virginia and the two little red wagons in white houses, ready to protect Arthurdale from flames.

In reply, those who manage the project point out that these miners were on relief rolls before they came to Arthurdale; that the Government is merely investing its money and that the principal will be paid back. Finally they point out that a higher standard of living is created, with expanding desires and an increased market.

What ever may be the pros and cons, one thing is reasonably certain: The outcome of the experiment will depend primarily upon the calibre of the homesteaders.

They are of old pioneer stock, serious, hard-working, with all the providence of the thrifty poor. In one house, a homesteader's "woman" stood over the kitchen stove stirring a pot of

Leist Pledges His Aid To Party; Harmony Is Urged

Declaring that he has not declined re-election as chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee because of ill health, and likewise stating that the job has not been a "thankless" one as reported in Saturday's Herald, C. A. Leist, local attorney, made a statement Monday concerning his stewardship and pledging his cooperation and assistance wherever he can be used to the advantage of his party.

There is no need to comment upon Mr. Leist's communication since it clearly explains itself.

"I wish you would please publish a correction on the article in your issue of Saturday, August 4th, which was headed:—

"SUCCESSOR TO LEIST STUDIED."

"First: 'My Health' has been very good for the past four years, and I have not declined re-election as Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee by any reason of 'poor health.'

"Second: I have not declined re-election because it was a "thankless job" as was stated in the above article.

"I wish to state that I have received much honor while holding the position of Chairman of the Committee, and the Committee, to a man, has acted loyally and harmoniously with me during the past four years.

"We have been having strenuous times throughout the nation and the Committee and its Chairman were not always able to secure positions for applicants, but we, as Committee members and Chairman, have worked together and have done the best we could.

"I have said to the Committee that I would not seek re-election because I was very busy with my law practice as well as being engaged in farming, all of which took a great part of my time; that to properly fill the office of Chairman, at least a month's hard work is required before an election, during which month, the Chairman must devote almost his entire time to his work in that capacity. I felt that as I had had the office and its accompanying honors for four years, I wanted to surrender the helm to some other good Democrat to share the honors of the position.

"I desire to emphatically state, at this time, that I am, and always will be willing and ready to lend my aid as best I can in furtherance of the Democracy of Pickaway-co, and if chosen in any capacity other than chairman, will continue to serve to the best of my ability and the fullest extent possible on the Democratic Executive Committee.

"I wish further to correct the impression left by an article written by Mr. Bohnert, and likewise published in your August 4th issue, that 'all candidates, except County Commissioner are from the City of Circleville.'

"In addition to the candidate for Commissioner, two of the candidates for Recorder and two for Representative now live in the Country; two of the candidates for Sheriff, two for Treasurer, two others for recorder, and one for Common Pleas Judge, were all born and raised in the country, and educated in country schools.

"We have a good lot of candidates from which to select for county offices, all of which are capable of filling the offices they are seeking, and we can hardly make a mistake in our nominations, and all of our nominees will be elected, unless we let petty differences between city and country tear us asunder. We sincerely hope that this article
